Crosby ISD hears report on “spending beyond its means”

CROSBY – At the Monday Board of Trustee’s meeting of Crosby ISD as promised Dr. Scott Davis, new superintendent of the district presented his findings in a report.

About 60 community members who were in attendance. The report included information on recently discovered financial issues and he stated, “The district has been spending beyond its means.”

Later during the meeting the board concerned with the safety of the children held a discussion on school safety and security measures, specifically, the hiring of three additional school resource officers. At $98,000 to $99,000 each per school year.

This reporter checked with law enforcement from throughout the area and learned that about $40,000 of that is for a deputy’s yearly salary.

Sherman Eagleton at his fundraiser on Thursday stated to this reporter that he did not know what decisions the schools were going to have to make because funds are tight but “I am going to see after the well-being of these kids, that is a priority.”

Improvements begins on roads including Baytown

Commissioner Jack Morman announced the start of construction on 3 BetterStreets2Neighborhoods (BS2N) projects for last Monday, August 13th along various roadways throughout the Channelview, Baytown, Crosby, and Huffman areas.

BS2N is a Precinct 2 program dedicated to preserving asphalt roadways by conducting base repairs, milling and overlaying with new pavement, as well as roadway striping and button replacement.

All three projects combined will cost $10.2 million and result in nearly 34 miles of roadway improvements. Roadwork will require single-lane closures, so drivers are encouraged to drive with caution through the construction zones. Construction is expected to be complete in the fourth quarter of this year.

Commissioner Morman's BS2N program currently has one project in active construction for the Crosby area, which began last month, and includes 14 miles of roadway improvements. He is expected to begin construction on a BS2N project for the Barrett Station area in upcoming weeks.

CHAMBERS COUNTY Public input needed for intersection of I-10 at FM 3180 project

CHAMBER COUNTY – TxDOT held an open house and hearing last Tuesday, August 21, 2018 at Eagle Point Recreation Complex in Mont Belvieu, Tx.

The purpose of the public hearing was to present the proposed improvements and gather public input for the intersection of I-10 at FM 3180 in Chambers County, Texas. During the open house displays were available for viewing to the public, and submission of comments.

Comments must be received on or before Thursday, September 6, 2018, to be a part of the official hearing record. People who could not attend the hearing may call TxDOT Beaumont District at 409-892-7311 for instructions to submit their comments.

Proposed improvements include the following:

- Reconfigure the I-10 and FM 3180 intersection by reconstructing I-10 as an overpass across FM 3180; currently, FM 3180 is an overpass across I-10
 - Widen FM 3180 from two lanes to four lanes
 - Install traffic signals at the intersection of FM 3180 and I-10 frontage roads
 - Widen the I-10 frontage road bridges over Cotton Bayou
- All work would occur within the existing right of way (ROW). No additional ROW, permanent/temporary easements are required; therefore, no displacements or relocations of residences and businesses are necessary.

Everyday Arthritis Relief

BAYTOWN — (August 17, 2018) — Stiff, arthritic knees can make activities like gardening, taking leisurely strolls around the neighborhood, shopping or even playing with the grandchildren extremely difficult.

Arthritis pain and stiffness usually stem from joint inflammation, muscle strain and fatigue. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates about 50 million adults and 300,000 children in the U.S. have some form of arthritis—osteoarthritis is the most common type, followed by rheumatoid and gouty arthritis. If you are suffering from chronic arthritis symptoms, Dr. Karthik Jonna, orthopedic surgeon at Houston Methodist San Jacinto Hospital, offers these simple strategies to help keep discomfort in check:

1. Move it. Exercise actually helps arthritis pain, increases range of motion and strengthens muscles around joints. "Try to be active every day. Low-impact exercises like walking, cycling, water aerobics or tai chi are great options," Jonna said.

2. Lose it.

Eating right and shedding excess pounds takes undue stress off your joints. A low-fat diet, such as DASH (Dietary Approaches to Stop Hypertension), may decrease your body's inflammatory response, reducing joint inflammation.

3. Go warm, go cold. Applying cold packs or warm compresses can relieve pain and stiffness. Cold packs work best within the first 24 hours of an injury or flare-up. Heat works well after that time. A warm shower can also provide some relief.

4. Rub it in. Massage eases pain and stiffness by

6 Tips to Keep Children Safe in Digital World

With the increase in cyberbullying, parents worry about the safety of their children in the digital world. Technology and digital devices are ingrained in our children's daily lives from an early age. David McGeary, curriculum director for Digital Education and Innovation at Harris County Department of Education, provides safety tips to help keep children from harm and be good digital citizens.

1. Talk to kids about digital safety at a young age and do it often.

Have parents talk to kids about what to do if something happens online. If students are at school, tell a trusted teacher. If something happens at home, tell a parent or other trusted adult.

Talk to children about their district's code of conduct and safety plans. If the district has an anonymous tip line, how do you access it? What kind of information should be shared? If the district maintains an account for routine safety updates or communications during an event, where is that social media channel located? How can parents engage that channel to stay informed or share information?

The Department of Homeland Security publicizes its "See Something, Say Something" initiative. Not only is it a good practice to follow this advice for personal safety, a student's report could save lives of others through conscientious sharing of information.

2. Be a part of your children's online experiences. Know the sites they visit and games they play.

Research shows that kids ages 12-17 are increasingly aware of the disparity between the "perfect life" that they see others share online and the "real life" they experience every day. Parents should work to remind their kids that social media is often a reflection of a person's best experiences, but it does not represent the whole person. Kids should learn to cherish themselves, flaws and all. All this while also keeping an open mind about what is happening on social media.

3. Don't allow young children to spend unsupervised time online.

Keep the family computer in a common area in the home. Keep charging devices out of private areas like bedrooms.

4. Enforce this rule: If you won't do something face-to-face, don't do it online. (Discuss social interactions.)

Research shows that victims of cyberbullying have often bullied someone online themselves. By humanizing the online space and developing empathy for others, parents can help their children break the cycle of victim-and-victimization.

5. Humanize online social interactions. Remind them that behind every pixelated avatar is a human being.

When kids begin to get more active on social media, help them to use social media in a healthy way. Encourage them to share snaps of things that they are interested in or Instagram posts of cool experiences they have. Social media is becoming increasingly important in the world after high school. Help kids to share the best versions of themselves online so they may be better positioned for a life outside of school once they graduate.

6. Parents and students: Be fierce guardians of your personal information.

If a student is being asked to use a third-party tool that requires the student to give out personal information, it's okay to ask if the district has a policy in place to protect the information that is being given away. Parents can further help their kids by reading the "terms of service and privacy policy." (This policy is usually found at the very bottom of a web page or in the settings of an application on any website that a student uses outside of their district's network.)

McGeary suggests that while children may be getting information about safe online behavior from their school, students who have regular discussions with their parents about digital safety are more likely to be vigilant, self-advocates when something goes wrong online. He also suggests parents become partners in their child's online experiences.

"Take interest in the sites your children visit and the games they play," said McGeary. "If kids are engaged in constant discussion about the digital realm, they are much more likely to approach a parent or guardian if something out of the ordinary occurs."

Texas Education Agency releases two sets of ratings

AUSTIN — The Texas Education Agency on Aug. 15 released 2018 campus accountability ratings and, for the first time ever, A-F district accountability ratings.

More than 8,700 independent school campuses received a rating of Met Standard, Met Alternative Standard or Improvement Required. Some 7,260 public school campuses and 558 charters were rated Met Standard or Met Alternative Standard, while 293 public school campuses and 56 charters were rated Improvement Required. Some 86 campuses would have received an Improvement Required rating but were affected by Hurricane Harvey to an extent that they were labeled Not Rated: Harvey Provision. Also, 506 campuses received a Not Rated label for reasons other than Hurricane Harvey.

Top performers lauded

Some 153 Texas school districts and district charters received an "A" rating under the A-F state accountability system, Education Commissioner Mike Morath announced.

"Achieving an A rating reflects the hard work and commitment of everyone within a school district, starting with our classroom teachers," Morath said. "We should all celebrate the outstanding work of these dedicated educators. Districts with high levels of poverty who attain this high level of performance are proof positive that poverty is not destiny. With strong instruction and curriculum, all students can succeed."

The A-F ratings are based numerical grades in three areas:

- Student Achievement, showing how much students know and are able to do at the end of the school year;
- School Progress, showing how students perform over time and how that growth compares to similar schools; and
- Closing the Gaps, showing how well different student groups within a school are performing.

School and school district report cards can be viewed at TXschools.org.

Paxton praises 5th Circuit

Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton on Aug. 16 commended a panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 5th Circuit for upholding a lower court's dismissal of a lawsuit by three University of Texas at Austin faculty members.

The UT professors challenged Senate Bill 11, the campus carry law, claiming that the legislation passed by the Texas Legislature in 2015 would have a "chilling effect" and stifle discussion in their classrooms. SB 11 took effect Aug. 1, 2016.

"The right to keep and bear arms is guaranteed for all Americans, including college students, and the 5th Circuit's decision prevents that right from being stripped away by three individuals who oppose the law enacted by the Legislature," Paxton said.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Ed Sterling

In July 2017, a U.S. District Court dismissed the professors' complaints on the grounds that they were baseless and without legal standing.

'Watch app' recommended

The Texas Department of Public Safety and Gov. Greg Abbott on Aug. 16 encouraged school staff, parents, students and community members to download the new "iWatchTexas" mobile application "to help law enforcement protect Texans."

At the direction of Gov. Abbott, DPS launched the mobile application in June to make it easier for the public to report suspicious activity, including criminal, terroristic or school safety-related threats.

Safe driving is promoted

The Texas Department of Transportation has renewed its annual effort to prevent drunken driving during the Labor Day holiday weekend.

TxDOT Executive Director James Bass on Aug. 16 said, "It's completely irresponsible and absolutely inexcusable to drink and drive. Finding a sober ride is easy, and it can save you from being arrested or from injuring or killing yourself or others. Make an effort to plan ahead for a sober ride this Labor Day weekend. You owe it to yourself and everyone else on the road."

Bass promoted the agency's anti-drinking and driving "Plan While You Can" campaign and recommended the website SoberRides.org as a source of alternatives to drinking and driving, such as:

- Designating a sober driver or calling someone for a sober ride home;
 - Contacting a taxi or ride-share service;
 - Using mass transit; and
 - Spending the night.
- Bond rating is highest Texas has received the highest credit ratings for this year's Texas Tax and Revenue Anticipation Notes, allowing the state to manage its cash flow needs for fiscal 2019.

State Comptroller Glenn Hegar made the announcement on Aug. 10, saying the ratings issued by the financial services companies Standard & Poor's, Fitch, Moody's and Kroll are the result of "conservative economic leadership and sound policies."

The notes are sold to help fund school payments and manage cash flow between the start of the fiscal year and the arrival of tax revenue later in the year. This year's $7.2 billion TRAN sale is set for Aug. 22.

DPS reminds drivers of traffic dangers associated with new school year

AUSTIN — As the new school year begins, the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) cautions Texans to slow down in school zones, and to be aware of children walking to and from school or waiting for buses. Drivers should be especially alert and careful around school buses — which make frequent stops — and always follow traffic laws regarding school buses and school zones. The start of the school year also generates an increase in overall traffic in many areas, and drivers should take extra precautions.

"With school districts across Texas returning to classes in the coming weeks, DPS is urging drivers to slow down and be alert in school zones and wherever children are present," said DPS Director Steven McCraw. "Motorists who disregard the law and illegally pass stopped school buses put our schoolchildren in harm's way — and that reckless and irresponsible behavior will not be tolerated by DPS."

The moments when students are entering or exiting the bus can be one of the most dangerous times during a child's trip on a school bus. Accordingly, DPS reminds drivers to reduce speed and be aware that children may unexpectedly step into a roadway without checking for oncoming traffic.

State law requires that drivers stop when a bus is stopped and operating a visual signal — either red flashing lights or a stop sign. Drivers should not proceed until the school bus resumes motion; the driver is signaled by the bus driver to proceed; or the visual signal is no longer activated. Approaching drivers do not have to stop for a school bus that is operating a visual signal if the roadway is separated by a physical barrier or an intervening space. (If a highway is divided only by a left-turning lane, the roadways are not considered separated, and drivers must stop for school buses.)

As a reminder, school buses, by law, must stop at all railroad crossings.

Drivers who illegally pass school buses face fines up to $1,250 for the first offense. For individuals convicted of this offense more than once, the law allows the individual's driver license to be suspended for up to six months. (A ticket for illegally passing a school bus cannot be dismissed through defensive driving.) Additionally, this offense could potentially include criminal charges if they cause serious bodily injury to another.

Commissioner Jack Morman begins playground upgrades at Riley Chambers Park

Concept for one of Riley Chambers Park’s new playground sets

BARRETT STATION, Texas – Construction is underway for playground upgrades at Riley Chambers Park. The $350,000 project will include the replacement of older playground equipment, installation of rubberized fall surfaces, and shade canopies. The playground sets will be equipped to accommodate children from ages 2 through 12. Construction is expected to be complete in October of this year. Residents are reminded that the Crosby Park and Highlands Park playgrounds are great alternates until the Riley Chambers Park playgrounds are complete. For more information and updates on the Precinct, visit www.hcp2.com and follow their Facebook page, “Harris County Precinct 2.”

Randal O'Brien, Goose Creek CISD superintendent (third from left) cuts the ribbon on one of two new sunshades on the playgrounds at Hopper Primary School. The sunshades were installed at Hopper through the support of Be Well™ Baytown, an initiative of The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center sponsored by ExxonMobil. As part of the initiative, GCCISD is implementing evidence-based programs, including teaching “Ray and the Sunbeatables®” and other sun safety curricula to inform the school community about the risk of sun exposure. Hopper piloted a school-wide approach to sun safety, including the implementation of the Sunbeatables Program, and met an established set of objectives. The opportunity to implement sun safety programming and to be considered for a shade structure will be extended to all schools this coming school year. helping your body produce painkilling endorphins. Look for a trustworthy massage therapist who has experience with arthritis sufferers.

5. Kick your pumps to the curb. Instead, opt for well-cushioned, well-fitting supportive shoes that give your feet and toes plenty of room.

6. Brace yourself. Braces for elbows, wrists, knees and other joints can take a load off your aching joints. “Check with your health care provider to see whether a brace might benefit you,” Jonna said.

7. Assess your space. Change your home to make it more user-friendly. Add a shower chair, install rails near the toilet, use a long-handled shoe horn and special grips to open jars and peel vegetables. An occupational therapist can make suggestions and help you find the items you need.

8. Stop smoking. Smokers face greater bone fracture risks because smoking can reduce bone mass. It can also lengthen your recovery time if you have joint surgery. Look into quit-smoking aids to kick the habit.

9. Boost your mood. Counteract stress and the negative mental effects of arthritis pain with relaxation techniques, such as meditation, yoga or deep breathing. Cognitive behavioral therapy may help you overcome feelings of helplessness.

10. Follow doctor’s orders. “Take arthritis medicine as directed. If the drug causes unwanted side effects, don’t stop taking it before talking with your provider,” Jonna explained. “The same goes for prescriptions you may feel aren’t working. Your provider can change your medicine or make other suggestions.”

BS2N begins in Barrett

BARRETT STATION, Texas – Commissioner Jack Morman announced the start of construction on a new BetterStreets2Neighborhoods (BS2N) project for Monday, August 20th along various roadways throughout the Barrett Station area. BS2N is a Precinct 2 program dedicated to preserving asphalt roadways by conducting base repairs, asphalt milling and overlay, as well as roadway button and striping replacement.

This $1.3 million project will repair nearly 9 miles of roadway, including Zinn Drive, St. Charles Drive, and Cottontail Drive, among many others. Construction is expected to be complete in the fourth quarter of this year. Roadwork will require single-lane closures, so drivers are encouraged to drive with caution through the construction zones.

Commissioner Morman currently has four other BS2N projects in active construction, resulting in 48 miles of additional improvements for east Harris County.

Be sure to visit www.hcp2.com or like the “Harris County Precinct 2” Facebook page for more information on the Precinct.

Harvey Timeline

- Aug. 13, 2017: Harvey began as a tropical wave off the west coast of Africa.
- Aug. 17, 2017: The National Hurricane Center began tracking Tropical Cyclone Nine. Later that day the storm was named Tropical Storm Harvey.

- Aug. 24, 2017: Tropical Storm Harvey strengthened into a hurricane. FEMA established an Incident Support Base at Randolph Auxiliary Airfield near Seguin, Texas, to pre-position supplies including water, meals, blankets and other resources closer to the potentially affected areas, should they be needed and requested by the state. State and local officials would then be responsible for distributing any supplies to their communities.

That night, Harvey made landfall on San Jose Island between Port Aransas and Port O'Connor as a Category 4 hurricane. Harvey made a second landfall at Holiday Beach as a Category 3 storm. The president issued a major disaster declaration for the State of Texas.
- Aug. 26, 2017: FEMA's Transitional Sheltering Assistance (TSA) began in Texas. Harvey weakened into a tropical storm. More than 15 inches of rain fell over San Patricio, Refugio, Nueces and Aransas counties as Harvey headed north toward Victoria County. The governor added 20 more counties to the state declaration.
- Aug. 27, 2017: FEMA mobilized four Incident Command Teams, worked with the State of Texas to develop an evacuation and support plan, supported the state with a food task force, set up three Incident Support Bases and a Federal Staging Area in San Antonio (Joint Base San Antonio) and supported 100 shelters for evacuees. The governor adds four more counties to his state declaration. Over the next few days, Harvey dropped up to 60 inches of rain (North American record) in parts of southeast Texas including Fort Bend, Brazoria and Harris counties.
- Aug. 28, 2017: The governor added four more counties to his state declaration. Fifteen to 25 inches of rain fell over much of Aransas, Refugio, San Patricio and Victoria counties.

- Aug. 30, 2017: Harvey made its final landfall near Cameron, La.

- Sept. 23, 2017: First extension of the TSA program.
- Sept. 25, 2017: FEMA Community Education and Outreach mission began in the Crosby Ace Hardware store.

Harris County continues to focus on recovery and resiliency efforts as Hurricane Harvey's first year anniversary approaches (Houston, TX) – As Hurricane Harvey's first year anniversary approaches, the Harris County Office of Homeland Security & Emergency Management (HCOHSEM) reflects on this historic storm that devastated southeast Texas with unprecedented flooding and destruction. Harvey was the most extreme rain event in U.S. history - close to 50 inches of rain fell during a four-day period.

Harvey claimed 36 lives in Harris County alone and led to one of the largest rescue efforts in Texas history. More than 300,000 vehicles and up to 160,000 homes and businesses were damaged. Damages are expected to exceed $125 billion.

"Harvey presented a tremendous test of strength for our region, especially for residents still trying to recover from previous floods," said Harris County Judge Ed Emmett. "Our area had been impacted by severe flooding for three consecutive years prior to Harvey."

Harris County has had five declared disasters since 2015. A year after Harvey, it is clear that the path to recovery continues and will require an unwavering effort from all levels of government, the public and private sector.

"Our priorities rest on helping communities recover and backing flood control projects to make our county more resilient," added Emmett. "We must all work together to accomplish this."

To date, the federal government has provided $800 million in housing and other disaster related expenses, and close to $260 million for public assistance projects. Most recently, an additional $1.1 billion was granted to fund Harris County recovery projects.

Harris County will oversee the allocation of $214 million in federal funds to help rebuild and repair single-family homes and an additional $119 million will go toward the construction of new single-family homes. More than $204.5 million will go to assist with damaged multi-family housing projects and affordable rental projects in areas affected by Harvey. Another $200 million will go to purchasing homes that have flooded throughout the county.

The Hurricane Harvey Relief Fund, established by Harris County Judge Ed Emmett and Houston Mayor Sylvester Turner, has distributed more than $110.5 million dollars to more than 100 local non-profit organizations. This fund, now managed by the Greater Houston Community Foundation, helps with needs that are not met by other local and federal efforts.

"As we reflect on Harvey, we cannot forget the first responders, law enforcement, and community volunteers who dedicated their time to response and recovery," said Emmett. "It is this neighbor helping neighbor spirit that helped us get through this year."

Although hurricane season has remained quiet so far, HCOHSEM reminds residents that storms can develop quickly and without warning. As we enter the peak of hurricane season, residents are urged to stay informed by downloading the Ready Harris App or by following HCOHSEM on Twitter and Facebook.
